

C

The image shows a handwriting practice sheet. It is a large rectangle with a thin black border. Inside this border, there are four vertical columns. Each column is defined by two vertical lines: a solid black line on the left and a dashed red line on the right. These lines are spaced evenly across the width of the page, creating four identical columns for practicing letter formation. The dashed red lines are intended to be traced or used as a guide for the right edge of a letter. The letter 'C' is printed in the bottom-left corner of the page, outside the main grid area.
